THE HERALD IS PROUD OF ITS ACHIEVEMENTS

trist, advocating greater publicity and annual assessments. This reform the Herald has consistently fought for, and victory now seems assured.

Advocating the extension of the work for playgrounds in the District, new buildings and added powers for the juvenile court, stricter regulation of child labor, and a number of like propositions, the Washington Herald has allowed no opportunity to pass without raising its voice for child welfare measures.

Pleasure for Little Children.
In April the Washington Herald brought joy to the hearts of about 1,500 orphaned boys and girls, all inmates of charitable institutions, by taking them on a trip around the world with Lyman Howe, the traveling lecturer, at the Columbia Theater.

Better pay and pensions for school-teachers and government clerks has been a constant demand of the Herald, both editorially and in its treatment of the news. This reform is one to which the Herald expects to lend itself during the present year.

In the cause of the clerks the Washington Herald was recognized as the official mouthpiece of the campaign, the first contributions to the fund being made through these columns. The Washington Herald was the first paper to take up the fight in behalf of real estate men, builders, and property owners against arbitrary changes in the building regulations without notice. The fight has lain quiescent for some time, pending the proper time to present the matter to Congress, but when the question finally is brought up, a stiff battle is promised.

Ever ready to lend its aid to movements for civic improvement, the Washington Herald has been the strongest advocate of the McMillan park commission scheme for beautifying the parks of the District. The Washington Herald first raised its voice in protest against the destruction of Rock Creek Valley, between Potomac Park and Rock Creek Park by use as a public dump, and the use of the valley for that purpose was discontinued shortly thereafter.

Year Closes with a Victory.
It so happened that at the very close of the year the Washington Herald was enabled to achieve a decided victory in a campaign which it had made against the practice of "capping" for persons given authority to perform the marriage ceremony. Its exposure of conditions around the courthouse led to an investigation by the courts, with the result that an order was issued which revoked the authority. This victory was loudly applauded by every one concerned in the good name of the city.

These and many other proposed changes and reforms the Washington Herald has met and discussed fully and frankly in the course of the year. It is proud of its record, and will during 1912 continue to battle earnestly and fearlessly in behalf of the District people.

NEWS OF ALEXANDRIA

Residents Join in Joyous New Year Celebration.

Alexandria, Va., Dec. 31.—A few minutes before midnight to-night the bells and whistles throughout the city let loose, the former tolling the death knell of the old year, and almost simultaneously they were rung again to welcome the birth of the new year, a year full of promise and joy to Alexandria, from a commercial standpoint. It was fully ten minutes after the old town clock had tolled the hour of 12 that the noise ceased and then all Alexandria went to bed, after having wished each other a happy and prosperous new year.

A short time before midnight the merry-makers who had gathered on the streets to witness the passing of the old and the birth of the new year, got busy and there was blowing of horns, discharge of fireworks, ringing of bells, and blowing of whistles. The noise reached its limit at the hour of 12. Whistles from every factory in the city turned loose, as did the whistles from the boats on the river front, while the city bells as well as the fire engine bells rang. The merry-makers went the limit, and the Alexandrians who had been so indiscreet as to go to bed, were involuntarily aroused from their slumbers and compelled to witness the passing of the old and birth of the new year.

During all this "watch night" services were being held by the faithful in many of the churches, and at the stroke of 12 prayers were offered to continue to feed the faithful in the straight and narrow path during the year 1912.

The merry-makers headed their ranks a little too early in the night, according to the estimation of Mayor Paff, for the ringing of bells and blowing of horns was put to a stop by order of the mayor, it was explained at police headquarters, until after the churches had concluded their services. The bells of several of the merry-makers were confiscated temporarily by the police. Among these confiscated were a set of sleigh bells in the hands of a number of youngsters.

New Year's will be observed in this city by the general suspension of business. Practically all business will come to a standstill. Many have arranged for "open houses," together with a number of private clubs.

In the evening several young ladies will give a New Year's dance at the Elks Home. There will also be a dance at McBurner's Hall. A number of parties have also been arranged for.

R. E. Lee Camp, Confederate Veterans, will hold its monthly meeting at its hall to-morrow night, at which time plans will be completed for its annual banquet, which will be held January 15. The banquet will be attended by the members of the camp, and also by the members of M. D. Corps Camp, Confederate Veterans.

A partial list of the speakers who will make addresses are Senator John Sharp Williams, of Mississippi, and Representative Tucker, of Colorado. Invitations have also been extended to several other representatives, and it is expected that several will accept.

M. D. Corps Camp, Sons of Confederate Veterans, will hold a meeting to-morrow night, at which time plans will be completed for attending the banquet on January 15.

be sold at public auction to-morrow by City Treasurer T. W. Robinson. All of the property will be bought in by the state. It is expected that most of it will eventually be redeemed by the owners.

An organization of the Men and Forward Religious Movement was perfected this afternoon at a mass meeting held at Christ Episcopal Church parish hall with the election of these officers: F. L. Shymaker, chairman; E. S. Leadbetter, vice chairman; G. Washington Lewis, secretary, and Walter S. Nicklin, treasurer.

During the afternoon an address on the aims and objects of the movement was made by Frederick J. Nichols, executive secretary of the Men and Religion Forward Movement, of Washington.

It was decided to have six committees appointed for the following work of the organization: Boys' work, Bible study, evangelism and community extension, missions—home and foreign, social service, and publicity.

Six men from each church will be appointed on the committees, and there will be one representative from each of the Protestant Churches on the various committees.

These committees will hold a meeting in the near future, at which time a chairman will be chosen. The meeting was then adjourned, subject to the call of the chairman.

The marriage of Miss Jessie Lee Cochran, daughter of Mrs. John Edwin Cochran, of Baltimore, and Orlando H. Kirk, of this city, will take place at 4:30 o'clock to-morrow evening at St. John's Methodist Protestant Church, Baltimore. Following the wedding the couple will leave for a Southern bridal trip. Upon their return they will reside in this city.

The public school and many of the private schools of the city will reopen Tuesday morning after the annual Christmas holidays.

E. E. Downham, of this city, has been elected representative of Annapolis, Temple, Mystic Springs, of Richmond, to the meeting of the Imperial Council, which will be held in Los Angeles May 7.

John Whitton, of this city, who has been spending the Christmas holidays with his parents here, has returned to his home in Salem, Va.

Yacht Winsom Arrives.
Commissioner Johnston's yacht, Winsom, which formerly served as a pleasure craft on the St. Lawrence River, was berthed yesterday in the dock near the Alexandria ferry slip. The Winsom is 47 feet long and 12 feet beam, and 13 feet deep. She was built in New York in 1904 and formerly was the Chesapeake. She has never been seen in the Potomac.

House Leader Improved.
The condition of Democratic House Leader Underwood, who is suffering from an acute attack of intestinal trouble, was improved last night and unless complications set in there will be no necessity for an operation for appendicitis, as was feared. Mr. Underwood will be out by Wednesday.

CATHOLIC CONVERTS MEET.

Hear Paper on Life of Author of "Mystery Play."

The life of Rev. Hugh Benson, whose "mystery play" will be again presented at Carroll Hall next Wednesday night by St. Patrick's Dramatic Club assisted by girls of the Sunday school and the auxiliary choir, was dealt with in the reading of biographical papers yesterday afternoon at the meeting of the Catholic Converts' League in McMahon Hall at the Catholic University.

Joseph E. Polton and Godfrey Furler were the speakers and biographical papers dealing with the lives of famous men and women who have become converts to the Catholic faith were a feature of the meeting.

American residents in Honduras have presented the government with a steamship—formerly the United States auxiliary cruiser Stren—while the government now operates for passenger traffic and freight service along the northern coast.
